Happenings Around the Country: August Edition

Hear Their Stories

by BAANG AND BURNE on SEPTEMBER 4, 2014 · in EVENTS

Cat del Buono, our new works grant winner for 2013, brings domestic violence to the forefront in her exhibition "Voices." Through use of audio visual screens simultaneously playing Cat has obscured what it is these women are saying but when you become intimate with each of them you can start to hear each of the women's stories.

Cat believes that "as a society, we must not allow the epidemic of domestic violence and those who are affected by it to remain an invisible and inaudible crowd of statistics." She is trying to accomplish just that with her art. How will you assist in bringing domestic violence be known and acknowledged to society?

In the Chicago area? Her work will be appropriately displayed at Woman Made Gallery at 685 N. Milwaukee Ave. Opening Reception will be this Friday Sept 5 from 6 to 9pm.

The show runs through to October and in observance of Domestic Violence Month the gallery will be hosting a panel discussion on the 25th from 6 to 9pm. For gallery hours go to womanmade.org.

We are so proud of Cat for completing such an emotional piece whose subject has been hidden and must be noticed.
